

THE NEW ENGLAND QUARTERLY

A Historical Review of New England Life and Letters

September 2020

In Memoriam

In Memoriam

Editorial

Editorial

Jonathan M. Chu

Forum

New England out of New England: Introduction

Betsy Klimasmith

“Dear New England”: Margaret Fuller on Region, Nation, and Home

Fritz Fleischmann

Lost Tribes East and West

Rachel Trocchio

“Were There Any Immigrants in New England?”

Ana Schwartz

Articles

Becoming a “Nation of Statesmen”: The Mohicans' Incorporation into the Iroquois League, 1671–1675

Evan Haefeli

Temporal Derangement and Historical Entanglement in Nathaniel Hawthorne's Alice Doane's Appeal

Maria Karafilis

Reconsiderations

Barbarous Howling, Sonic Space, and Identity: The New England Regular Singing Controversy of the 1720s

John Corrigan

Book Reviews

When Novels Were Books

Mark Alan Mattes

Overwhelmed: Literature, Aesthetics, and the Nineteenth-Century Information Revolution

Ricardo Miguel-Alfonso

Surviving Genocide: Native Nations and the United States from the American Revolution to Bleeding Kansas

Daniel Mandell

Standard-Bearers of Equality: America's First Abolition Movement

Richard D. Brown

Speaking with the Dead in Early America

John Howard Smith

Black Lives, Native Lands, White Worlds: A History of Slavery in New England

Antonio T. Bly

Selling the Sights: The Invention of the Tourist in American Culture

Charlene Boyer Lewis

Faraway Women and the Atlantic Monthly

Jane Simonsen

Crying the News: A History of America's Newsboys

James Schmidt

The Men and the Moment: The Election of 1968 and the Rise of Partisan Politics

Andrew L. Johns