

THE NEW ENGLAND QUARTERLY

A Historical Review of New England Life and Letters

VOL. 94, NO. 3: SEPTEMBER 2021

Editorial

Jonathan M. Chu

In Memoriam:

Robert L. Middlekauff (1929–2021)

Ruth Bloch

2020 WHITEHILL PRIZE

Lost Years Recovered: John Peters and Phillis Wheatley Peters in Middleton

Cornelia H. Dayton

ESSAYS

Roger Williams and the Indian Business

Julie A. Fisher

“The Presence of Improper Females”:
Reforming Theater in Boston and Providence, 1820s–1840s

Sara E. Lampert

MEMORANDA AND DOCUMENTS

Author, Author: A Short Story of the Rise, reign, and ruine of the Late Antinomians, Famillists, and Libertines (1644)

Reappraised

David D. Hall

REVIEW ESSAY

Thomas Hutchinson and Vernacular
Constitutionalism

Peter C. Messer

BOOK REVIEWS

*Hidden Places: Maine Writers on Coastal Villages, Mill Towns, and the North
Country.* By Joseph A Conforti

Susan F. Beegel

Gateways to Empire: Quebec and New Amsterdam to 1664. By Daniel Weeks

Martine Julia van Ittersum

Criminal Dissent: Prosecutions Under the Alien and Sedition Acts of 1798. By Wendell
Bird

Thomas C. Mackey

American Intelligence: Small-Town News and Political Culture in Federalist New Hampshire. By Ben P. Lafferty

Richard C. Rohrs

*Collecting the Globe: The Salem East India
Marine Society Museum.* By George H.
Schwartz

Rachel Tamar Van

*The Course of God's Providence: Religion,
Health, and the Body in Early America.* By Philippa Koch

Olivia Weisser

Political Godmother: Nackey Scripps Loeb and the Newspaper that Shook the Republican Party. By Meg Heckman

Michael J. Birkner